CSI Global and CITEX meet with the National Energy Dominance Council at the White House

A meeting at the White House with the National Energy Dominance Council (NEDC) on the administration's energy strategy and priorities.

WASHINGTON, D.C.. CSI Global and CITEX were honored to meet at the White House with the National Energy Dominance Council (NEDC) to discuss the administration's energy strategy and priorities.

The council coordinates federal policy across energy production, power generation, and the infrastructure that supports them. For CSI Global and CITEX, whose engineers, inspectors, and accredited laboratory support data center, power, infrastructure, and heavy civil programs nationwide, the meeting was an opportunity to share how engineering and quality assurance help deliver that infrastructure safely and on schedule.

ABOUT CITEX
